

Ohio Revised Code

Section 1563.15 Additional opening for protection against inundation.

Effective: October 29, 1995

Legislation: Senate Bill 162 - 121st General Assembly

At any mine where there is a stream or body of water on the surface, or in the workings of the mine, at a higher level, which is likely to break through into such mine, and inundate either the traveling or escapement way of such mine, so as to prevent the egress of persons employed therein, the operator shall provide and maintain an additional opening by means of which such persons may escape without using the traveling or escapement way likely to be inundated.

No operator of a mine shall refuse or neglect to comply with this section.
