

Ohio Administrative Code Rule 1501:21-5-06 The specifications.

Effective: May 18, 2023

The specifications shall include the following:

(A) The general provisions, specifying the rights, duties, and responsibilities of the owner, applicant, applicant's engineer, and builder, and the prescribed order of the work.

(B) The technical provisions, describing approved work methods, testing methods, testing frequency, equipment, materials, and required end results. The structural and hydraulic properties for the materials to be used as well as specifications for preparation and placement of these materials may also be required. The extent and method of quality control are subject to approval by the chief.

(C) Special provisions as may be required, describing those technical details that are not usually contained in standard technical provisions.
